Description

In Hungary our offer is primarily aimed at municipalities to help them find a complex solution to shifting away from gas heating to a renewable source of energy by relying on Arundo energy cane plantations. At international level the Arundo energy cane can be produced to provide bioethanol factories, biogas plants, biomass power stations, steel and paper mills with raw material. For this purpose our company can supply the micropropagated plantlets and the cultivation technology. Environmental protection is at the heart of our activity and we are committed to the principles of sustainable development. Let's work together for both our Earth and energy independence!
